

BISHOP CANNON FUND AIDED BY FRELINGHUYSEN

seph S. Frelinghuysen, New Jersey Republican leader, as donor of $10,000 to the bishop.

In the first day's session this week, C. Bascom Slemp, Republican National committeeman for Virginia and former secretary of President Coolidge, testified he aided Cannon in obtaining contributions from E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist.

Basel Manly, a committee aide, who was called as a witness, testified that no report was made of the $10,000 contribution by Cannon or Frelinghuysen.

"There is no record in the office of the clerk of the house of representatives as far as we can learn nor were any reports made to the Steiwer committee which investigated 1928 campaign expenditures," Manly said.

S. C. Ferguson, president of the Hudson County National Bank, Jersey City, N. J., was the first witness today. He produced two cashiers' checks for $5000 each.

"Do you know who paid for these checks?" Nye asked.

"Yes, sir," Ferguson replied, "Senator Frelinghuysen."

Indorsements on the checks were by "James Cannon, Jr." and "James Cannon, chairman."

A Richmond banker testified yesterday that Cannon had withdrawn more than $9500 from an anti-Smith account in a Washington bank for deposit in his personal account in Richmond.

Ferguson said Frelinghuysen is a director of his bank. It was revealed that a committee investigator had approached the bank and traced the check to Frelinghuysen and that the former senator told the investigator readily he was the maker of the checks, Ferguson said.

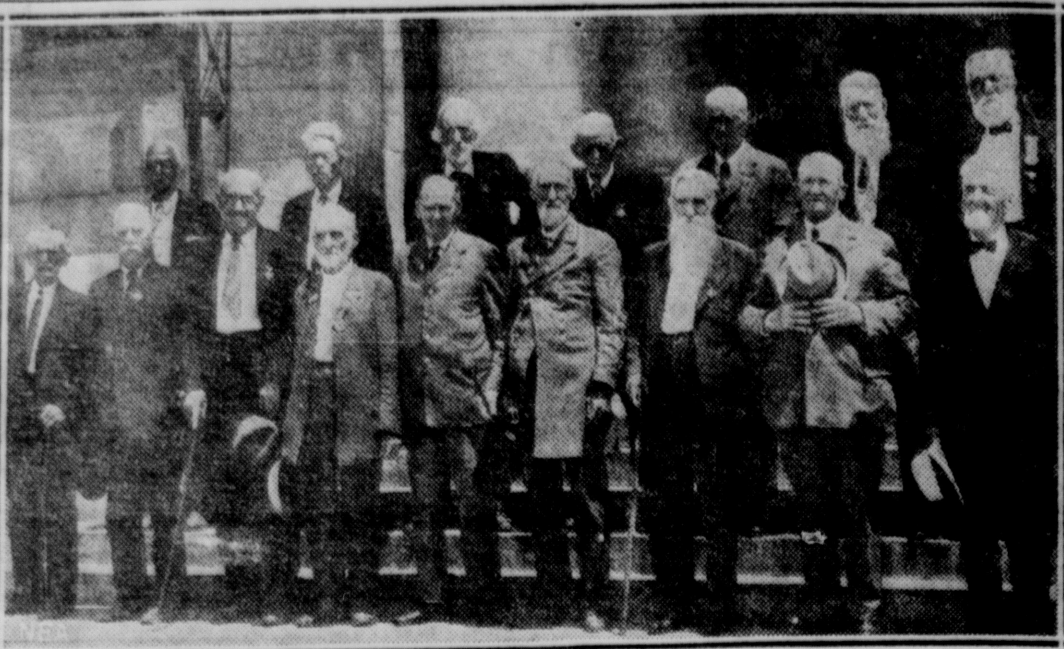

"Did you have any contact with Bishop Cannon or converse with him about the checks?" Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, asked.

"No," the banker replied, "I did not see Bishop Cannon."

If the land surface of the earth was divided between the inhabitants, each person would receive about 20 acres.

SOLDIERS OF THE SOUTH—ON REVIEW

Attention! The passing of years has left these proud soldiers of the South unbowed. Here you see them, still young in spirit and military bearing, as they attended a reunion of Confederate veterans at Asheville, N. C. Each of them is more than 86 years old.

OFFICIALS AND PRISONERS LOSE LIVES IN RIOT

the riot and used them as shields against the guards' weapons.

Machine guns and gas bombs finally were used on the barricade. Blinded and fearing capture, the four convicts killed themselves, prison authorities said.

Prison officials immediately began investigation of how the prisoners obtained possession of the firearms. Warden James P. Corgan said he had been unable thus far to learn much of the plot. Suicide of the ringleaders, it was feared, may prevent complete explanation.

Not even the plan by which the men hoped to shoot their way out of the prison yard could be learned, although it was reported an armored car, said to be from Detroit, was waiting outside the prison to receive the convicts once they passed the walls.

Inside the factory the men barricaded themselves and began firing on guards and state troopers, who immediately took up positions about the beleaguered building. The prisoners were armed with revolvers and apparently had a good supply of ammunition. Prison guards raked the factory building with rifle and machine gun fire. Shots poured through the windows, and the prisoners fired back.

There was no effort on the part of other prisoners to join the break, officials said.

Finally a barrage of tear gas bombs, tossed into the factory, silenced the firing from the inside. After an interval guards advanced cautiously and made a concerted rush. Inside they found the trio dead. Each had ended his own life, realizing escape was impossible.

While the main fight went forward at the old factory, Hohfer rounded a corner in a corridor of another building, saw a guard and fired. As his first shot missed their mark Hohfer turned the revolver on himself, ending his life.

As all the men were from Detroit, it is believed they all planned the escape together. How Hohfer was separated from Germano, the apparent leader, and Duver and Rosenberg, has not been decided.

Warden James P. Corgan said the men never had a chance to make good their escape, especially as the outbreak was of such small proportions. Reports that an armored car, manned by Detroit gangsters, waited near the prison to aid in the delivery could not be confirmed.

After order was restored a search of all cells was started to discover if other prisoners had weapons secreted.

Cowling, who with Olligschlager, were in the hospital office with Dr. Hornbogen when Germano and his companions came in, said the men drew guns and started firing without warning. They said they were ill, and then started shooting. Dr. Hornbogen, taking the place of Dr. L. L. Youngquist, fell at the first volley.

FORMER BORAX KING DIES IN OAKLAND TODAY

years that he battled to regain his lost wealth and prestige.

He also leaves three daughters and a son. One of the daughters is Mrs. Walter Cole, San Mateo, whose husband, a prominent San Francisco attorney, died a month ago.

It was only a year ago that Smith's $1,800,000 mansion on Arbor Villa road, Oakland, was auctioned off. As the years brought increasing financial stringency, Smith often had said, "If I only had youth, I could have come back. I see opportunities on all sides, but there is one bar. I am 84 years old."

Smith, who forced the borax deposits of Death valley to yield him two immense fortunes, tossed millions into real estate developments in Oakland and elsewhere throughout the East Bay.

Smith organized the realty syndicate in 1896, and in the following two decades it grew into the $200,000,000 United Properties company. When this crashed, the history of Alameda county's development had been written in the growth of the syndicate. Its financial collapse, however, ruined Smith almost overnight.

In 24 hours Smith plunged from the heights of the west's richest man to its poorest. He was $24,000,000 in debt, and others had obtained control of his borax holdings.

Practically penniless, but with spirit unbroken, Smith went again into the desert seeking another borax deposit. He found it, and for a time bid fair to recover his lost fortune.

FARMER-PLAYWRIGHT

LONDON.—George Curtis has given up his plow and now opines that the pen is mightier than both the sword and the plow. For four years, in between his farm duties which occupied most of his time from 5:30 in the morning until 8 at night, he concentrated on writing a play. Now that play, "Retribution," has been accepted for production by a big theater at an early date.

HONORS HEAPED ON LINDBERGH AT RECEPTIONS

East, had arranged for every minute of the day and the program was carefully followed.

The first decorations for Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh will be awarded tomorrow by the Japanese Aviation society, the nation's leading aeronautical organization. These medals will be followed by other official honors during the next few days.

Tomorrow night the ambassadorial corps in Tokyo, headed by U. S. Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, will hold a reception for the Lindberghs.

As the party moved from place to place in the capital city, crowds waiting along the streets for a glimpse of the new national heroes broke into cheer after cheer. Most of the shouts were for "Lindy," while other called out the Japanese "Banza!" of welcome.

Keen rivalry existed among individuals and organizations for the privilege of entertaining the Lindberghs. The Tokyo Nichi Nichi and Osaka Mainichi newspapers invited the Lindberghs when they were at Nemuro to attend a private party in Tokyo tomorrow and later announced the Lindberghs had accepted.

The American embassy refused to sanction the affair on the Lindberghs' arrival in Tokyo, informing the newspapers that the party might cause complications with other publications, particularly the Tokyo Asahi. The latter paper recently offered $25,000 for the first nonstop flight across the Pacific.

It was believed the Nichi Nichi would withdraw invitations it had issued for the party.

Speeches at tomorrow's banquet by Col. Lindbergh, Ambassador Forbes and Ministers Abo Minami and Koizumi will be broadcast throughout the nation and re-broadcast to the United States.

The Lindberghs arrived yesterday at Kasumigaura naval air-drome, 45 miles from the city, after a 600-mile flight from Nemuro. They were 29 days flying to Tokyo from New York over a route of more than 7000 miles.

reserves and only limited foreign distributing facilities," their statement said. "The Jersey company has limited domestic crude oil reserves, but has large foreign reserves and an important foreign system of distribution."

The "important" reserves include 13 subsidiary companies in North and South American control by California Standard, and vast reserves in Mexico, Roumania, Venezuela, Canada and the Dutch East Indies belonging to New Jersey Standard.

Parent of the vast Standard Oil group, New Jersey Standard had assets of $730,886,692 at the close of 1930, owning wells producing 270,000 barrels of oil daily. It has 3972 miles of pipe lines, owns 6000 gas wells and 4700 miles of mains. It earned $42,750,663 in 1930.

Foremost of California Standard's holdings is a 50 per cent interest in the Kettleman Oil corporation, which controls half of the production from 1750 acres on the north dome of Kettleman Hills in California—one of the most fabulous oil strikes in the industry's history. It shut down many of these wells and curtailed the others, yet produced 94,576 barrels daily in 1930.

The company had $105,350,859 assets in 1930 on which it earned a net profit available for common stock of $37,675,301.

Court Notes

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel has rendered a judgment in favor of A. E. Wallace in a suit against his brother, Monroe E. Wallace, over the sale of a 40 acre orange grove near Anaheim, which was placed in the latter's name for the purpose of subdivision. A. E. Wallace asked for an accounting and a court order declaring his brother held the property in trust.

The trial of T. W. Waters, charged with non-support of minor children, was continued in superior court today at the request of Waters' attorney, L. A. West, to September 3 at 9:30 a. m.

Charging her husband, Alexander R. Winter, with being habitually intemperate and with flirting with another woman, Flossie Winter has brought suit for divorce. She asked $20 a week for the support of four minor children.

Henry I. Padgham has brought suit against the Inyo Marble company and Sheriff Logan Jackson, asking a restraining order to prevent sale of property in Santa Ana against which an execution has been levied for a $713 judgment. The complaint said the sale would place a cloud on title to land and that Padgham would be forced to institute quiet title proceedings or wait until a purchaser of the property brought suit for possession, in order to clear the title.

On the ground that her husband, Forest J. Eaton, has been sentenced to San Quentin for grand theft, Gladys F. Eaton has filed suit for divorce.

ASK $107,500 FOR INJURIES TO BEACH GIRL

Two damage suits for a total of $107,500 were filed here today in superior court, based on injuries to Virginia Benedett, 8, of Surfside colony, Sunset Beach, who was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Loyola Kennedy on July 25, while she was crossing a private street, according to the complaint. Injuries to her vision, causing her to see double; the piercing of both ear drums, causing a hemorrhage; several skull fractures, concussion of the brain and numerous bruises are listed in the complaints. Four doctors and day and night nurses have been employed to attend the girl, the document said.
One complaint asks $100,000 for personal injuries to the girl. She is plaintiff in this suit through her father, Daniel D. Benedett. Mrs. Kennedy and her husband, John R. Kennedy, are defendants in each case. Kennedy was riding in the car with his wife at the time of the accident, according to the complaints.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Benedett, are plaintiffs in the second case, which asks $7500 for damages, including hospital expenses and doctors' bills. The complaint stated that a major operation would be necessary to restore the girl's vision.

Editor Register:
In justice to Mr. D. C. Clanton, director of the Santa Ana Municipal Band, and to myself, please permit me space in your paper to correct an erroneous impression carried in a news report last evening regarding our letter to the city council in which we suggested economies in the band fund.

Your news report said: "Then followed a personal criticism of the band director and a suggestion that by cutting the salary down and leaving approximately $150 for a concert, several thousand dollars would be saved."

The Civic League does not want, nor intend, to indulge in any "personal criticism" of anybody. The League is interested only in the economic aspects of the situation, and not in the personality of the individual. We have no personal criticism of the band director, who undoubtedly is a musician of rare ability, and to whom Santa Ana owes much for its present musical recognition.

We believe in the band and its director, but we also believe, the more than $5500 paid to Los Angeles musicians yearly should be saved to Santa Ana, and also that the band director's salary of $400 per month is not justified by his work in only 17 concerts per year, especially in view of the fact that the city clerk, city auditor and chief of police, working full time, only receive $300 per month.

The closing paragraph of our letter to the city council, which was not made clear in the news report, was as follows: "If the salaries of outside musicians were dispensed with the director's salary cut in half, which would still leave him $150 approximately per concert, it would make a saving of nearly $5,000 per year, and enable you to make a 21-2 cent reduction of the tax rate, which we recommend as worthy of your consideration."

We made a check of the band finances at the instant request of several of our members living in Santa Ana, and presented the facts as a matter of public duty, not with any idea of finding fault with those in charge of the band, but so that the public may have the facts to decide whether or not $550 per concert is a satisfactory price to pay for municipal music. It seems like a high price to us, and our hope is that we can save the band, but upon an economic basis satisfactory to the people of the city.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE W. MOODY

ACTRESS TO WED IN FIGHT TO PREVENT DEPORTATION

With the specter of possible deportation hovering in the background Janina Smolinska, Polish actress, has filed notice of her intention to wed Waclov Walter Grabowski, Los Angeles hair dealer. The notice was entered in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs here yesterday and is regarded as the first move in the stage beauty's attempt to establish a right to live in this country.

Miss Smolinska is a motion picture actress, international beauty contest winner and former premier danseuse of the Folies Bergere in Paris. She is now awaiting the decision of the federal immigration department in deportation proceedings against her for remaining in this country over her six months permit. She has asked permission to return to Poland of her own volition within six weeks.

It is Miss Smolinska's intention to wed Grabowski before going to Poland so that she can return later as the wife of an American citizen, which will aid her in entering and obtaining citizenship. Papers in her case will be sent to Washington on September 4, with the recommendation of the commissioner at Los Angeles and the outcome should be known within three weeks. Deportation would bar her forever from this country and her husband unless he joined her in Poland. If she is deported she will carry her fight to the highest court according to her attorney, Norbert Savay.

Y WORKER IS SPEAKER FOR KWANIS MEET ANAHEIM WILL BE HOST FOR CHURCH GROUP

O. H. Barr, prominent Santa Ana business man and Y. M. C. A. worker, was the featured speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club held yesterday noon in Ketter's cafe. He was introduced by Elmer Steffenson, who recently returned from a vacation trip in the high Sierras.

Barr likened the Y. M. C. A. to a mammoth college with a million students with 1600 units in the organization. Great work has been accomplished by the organization, he declared, and still greater achievements are in store for those who give unstintingly of their time and effort to help the young men of the world in a program of civic and healthful living.

The speaker told of the organization of the national council years ago and of the work accomplished by this, the international council and the world alliance. He gave a brief outline of some of the salient points of the conferences he attended in Cleveland, Ohio, where he was elected to national and international offices.

He read an editorial from a prominent Cleveland paper that lauded the efforts of the officers of the Y. M. C. A. in the "stimulating and uplifting work that is being done to serve the young people who in turn must serve the world in the future, and which creates a spirit of justice, brotherhood and understanding among all nations." Barr told of a communistic demonstration that was staged while sessions of the conference were in progress. The Y. M. C. A., the communists declared, belonged to the bosses, the rich and the world.

J. P. Baumgartner, temporary president of the Santa Ana Citizens' committee, invited club members and guests to attend a showing of a 30-minute picture at the Walker State theater immediately following next week's meeting. The picture is officially sanctioned and sponsored by the Metropolitan Water District and will show the site of the Boulder dam and scenes on the route of the proposed aqueduct that will carry water to Southern California from the Colorado river if the bond election is voted upon favorably on September 29. The picture is educational but does not deal in political subjects, the speaker declared.

Charles Walker, president, announced the election of club officers for October 14. Primary will be on September 26 and the sample ballots will be ready by September 11, he announced. City Attorney Clyde Downing was a guest at the meeting.

PREDICAMENT OF ANAHEIM'S SCHOOLS TOLD

A communication addressed to the board of supervisors was formulated at a meeting of the Anaheim board of education held yesterday afternoon in Anaheim. The letter points out the predicament the schools in Anaheim are in as a result of the cutting of the school budgets by County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, without notifying the school officials, it was reported.

The slash in the budgets of the Anaheim grammar and elementary schools will amount to about $10,000 in each case, it was estimated. Grammar school officials are expressly concerned over the matter because of the building of the Horace Mann grammar school in Anaheim at a cost of $53,000. According to Frank Gibbs, member of the board, it was planned to use about $15,000 out of the accumulation and building tax fund, with an additional $18,000 in the reserve fund to help pay for the school. The school is practically completed and it is planned to shift students around in the other grammar schools to lessen the number in other schools.

The letter to the board of supervisors will ask that the time for acting definitely upon the budget be deferred until members of the school board can get in touch with Ray Adkinson and put the matter before the county board of supervisors. The state law provides that school boards must submit their budgets to the county superintendent of schools before June 20. The superintendent is permitted a month in which to examine the estimates and if changes are to be made he is obligated under the law to send the estimates back to the makers by July 20.

Anaheim school authorities were instructed to make their budgets conform to a 44-cent tax levy, based upon a 10 per cent decrease in property values in the district. In order to do this, it was said, many reductions were made in the proposed expenditures. Anaheim authorities declared that when the budget was not returned, they believed it was satisfactory and would not be changed. The rate was slashed to 37 cents.

No word has come to the office of the county board of education on the matter today, but Adkinson is expected to be back from his vacation Monday of next week and the board of supervisors is scheduled to fix the final tax rate the following day at the regular meeting of the board of supervisors.

UNION WORKERS IN OPPOSITION TO 7-DAY WEEK

Efforts made by some organizations to establish a seven-day work week for their employees is meeting with strenuous opposition on the part of organized labor. This opposition is based upon the belief that a seven-day work week would tend to increase the seriousness of the unemployment situation.

The following resolution has been received from the Santa Ana Typographical union and presents logical arguments against the proposal.

The resolution follows:
Whereas, It has been brought to the attention of Santa Ana Typographical Union No. 579 that efforts are being made in some places of business to establish a seven-day work week for their employees, and

Whereas, The International Typographical Union, which pioneered the shorter work week for its members and thus increased the average expectancy of life approximately 18 years, has been endeavoring to establish the five-day week in all of its jurisdiction and has succeeded in a number of the larger cities, now be it

Resolved, That in view of the widespread unemployment and the sentiment, not only of organized labor but of big industry, for the five-day week as a solution of the present business depression, we believe that advocates of a seven-day work week are out of step with the trend of the times and would only cause their own business to suffer by creating more unemployment, and be it further

Resolved, That the executive board of Santa Ana Typographical Union No. 579 denounces such business ethics as un-American and in opposition to the policy of our federal government, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this meeting.

(Signed) F. E. STILWELL,
Chairman Executive Board,
Santa Ana Typographical Union
No. 579.

PROSPERITY IS BASED ON GOLD REALTORS TOLD

Prosperity of the United States is dependent directly upon the proportion of the gold supply, according to Lorin O. McCormack, well known Los Angeles real estate appraiser and economist who addressed a meeting of real estate brokers last night in Ketter's cafe. The speaker declared that the United States at the present time had too large a supply of gold while the rest of the nations in the world were faced with an inadequate supply of the precious metal.

The fact that this country has too much gold was given as one of the main reasons for the present business depression that is prevalent throughout the world by McCormack in his address. The gold supply is not increasing in proportion to the increase in the production of commodities and this is the reason for the decline in current prices of these commodities, he declared. The average gold production of the world increases annually at a rate of 3 per cent while the supply of commodities increases by but one and a half per cent, he asserted.

McCormack outlined the economic history of the nation from 1800 up to the present time and cited several instances to prove his contention that the gold supply was a vital factor in world economics.

There were 38 prominent realtors from Whittier, Los Angeles, Montebello, Anaheim, Laguna Beach and Santa Ana present at the meeting. Frank E. McCarter, president of the Santa Ana Realty Board, presided at the meeting and Charles Shattuck of the appraising division of the California Real Estate association, introduced the speaker of the evening. The meeting was one of a series being held by real estate men to study appraising.

The estate of Blanche Dean Hall, of Laguna Beach, who died on July 5, is valued at $41,015.67 and contains diamond jewelry worth $3600 according to a report of Inheritance Tax Appraiser John Anderson, which was filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs today.

The report listed a diamond ring worth $1750, a diamond wedding ring appraised at $50, a diamond brooch and diamond watch and chain estimated to be worth $900 each. The bulk of the estate consists of bonds and property at Laguna Beach.

Beneficiaries are Mary Stockbridge, Phyllis Hall and Geraldine E. Joyce, of Laguna Beach, and Geraldine Kennedy and Dean Blackman of New York.

EDUCATOR SAYS FRESHMEN NEED STUDY COURSES

BOSTON — (INS) — A two-week period at the start of a student's college life in which he would be taught how to do college work, is advocated by Dean Everett W. Lord of Boston University's college of Business Administration.

His proposal of a "transitional period" for incoming freshmen followed a study of many months of reports gathered from 147 colleges and universities throughout the country covering a period from 1924 to 1929.

In his conclusions, Dean Lord reported that he found 28.6 of the freshman class withdraws during or at the end of the first year. Of this group, 25 per cent left because of scholastic difficulties, which meant, the educator explained, that one quarter of the students entering colleges were unable to continue college work.

"There must be one of two reasons for this great loss of freshmen," Dean Lord declared. "Either the colleges admit a large number of low grade students or the colleges do not conduct their courses so as to meet the needs of freshmen. I believe the second reason is responsible for this heavy loss. Consequently if a transitional period were put to use the freshman would have time to become adjusted to college methods before finding himself in trouble. In this transitional period the student would not touch the actual work of the course but merely learn how to do college work; how to study, and how to take notes."

According to Dean Lord, who organized the college of business administration at Boston University, 25 per cent of the seniors fail to reach the senior class, and of the group reaching the senior class 10 per cent fail to be graduated. Dean Lord explained the sophomore class as due to the large number of students who transfer to professional schools, such as law.

The senior loss was most alarming, he continued. Over the four periods, a large number fall by the wayside, for only 42 per cent of those entering as freshmen remain to be graduated.

Dean Lord suggested a study to determine the reason why such a large percentage of seniors fail to graduate each year.

GEYSER OF STEAM GOES ALL TO WASTE

BRAWLEY — A geyser of steam has developed at Mullet Island, in Salton Sea, through the "shooting" of one of the latent wells drilled on the island several years ago.

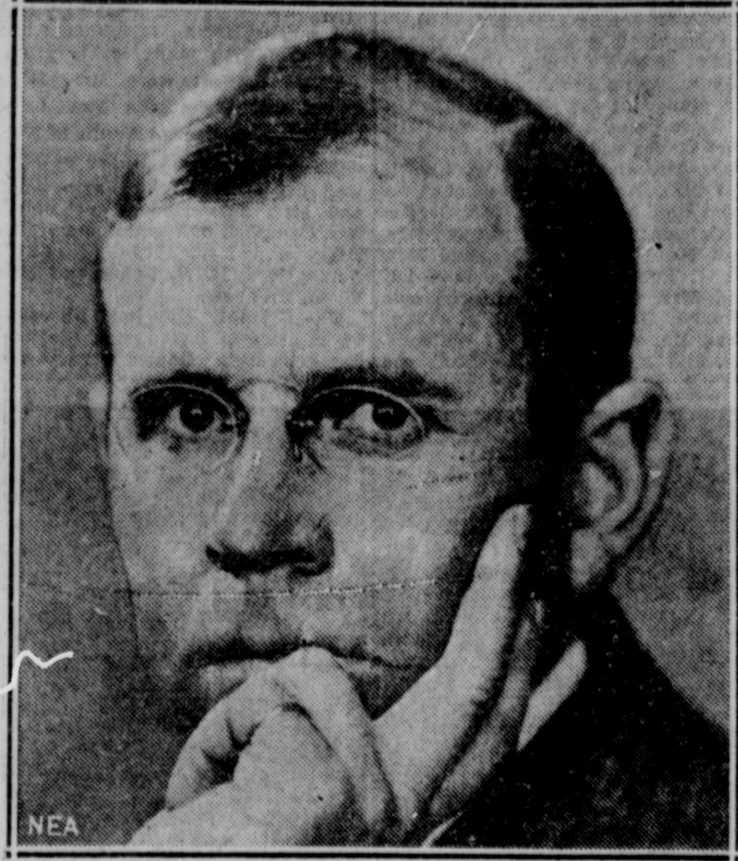

It was planned to develop the steam to a point where it could be sold commercially, but the project was abandoned. The geyser did not come in on schedule, the "shooting" being followed by a dull thud and a light fountain of water. Later the geyser started things of its own accord, bursting into the air with considerable force which scattered mud and stones over a large area. The performance is now in progress according to Captain Charles Davis, owner and sole inhabitant of the island.

NEW HOUSING PLAN WORKED OUT BY YALE

By R. T. BULKELEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Where Harvard has her "houses," Yale is to have "colleges."

Yale officials, working out the new system of housing her students in undergraduate schools, have decided to adopt an old custom. A century ago all Yale dormitory buildings were called "colleges."

Under the new scheme of things ancient worthies will be honored. One unit is to be called Berkeley college, after the Irish divine who endowed the first graduate work here. That will rise where, as old Yale men know, Berkeley oval now exists.

A quadrangle rising along Park street is to be called Abraham Pierson college and a companion group on York street will bear the name:

"John Davenport college."

The great Harkness quadrangle, for the last decade the marvel of Yale, is to be split two ways. One part will be called Branford and the other will be known as Saybrook college.

Yale was founded by a group of ministers who met in a house at Branford and was first given actual life at the shore line town of Saybrook.

Yale officials so far have revealed names for but five of the future colleges. Plans are ready for construction of 11 such units, the others to come when room is provided for students living in structures that are to be altered or razed.

When the buildings for Davenport college and Abraham Pierson college are ready, students will be moved to them. When a new divinity school is completed, the present group at Elm and College streets will be torn down and a "college" quadrangle built there.

The old campus also is to be converted. So is the site of the present Yale gymnasium. Another such building is proposed for land now occupied by recitation buildings behind the art museum on High street.

Three masters have been chosen so far for the new colleges: H. Emerson Tuttle, a noted engraver; Professor Robert D. French of the Yale English faculty, and Allan C. Ballantine, dean of Swarthmore college.

One thing about the house plan has not been settled yet. That is the question of whether the new "colleges" will do away with fraternities. "The ghost must continue to walk," says Professor French, who is devoting much time to the question.

FAMED OUTLAW ASSERTS CRIME DOES NOT PAY

WICHITA, Kans., Aug. 26. — Crime is in the big business now, but still it doesn't pay. That is the opinion of Emmett

Dalton, youngest member of the hard-shooting, wild-riding Dalton brothers, outlaw band of the eighties.

Visiting here, Dalton reminisced over the days when he and his brothers were regarded with the Jesse James gang, as the most notorious outlaws of the middle west.

He still bears the scars of the west's most epic and bloody street battle, that of October 5, 1892, when the Dalton group was all but wiped out at Coffeyville, Kas., when it attempted the most ambitious project of robbing two banks at once.

Emmett Dalton took a load of buckshot in the back and a bullet through his left arm when townsmen, apprised of the dual robbery, trapped the bandits in an alley as they were preparing to escape on horseback. The other members of the band were slain.

Serves Long Term
Dalton served 14 years in the Kansas State prison and was paroled in 1907.

"Crime has gone into big business," he observes, "but it doesn't pay now any more than it did then."

"It pays less when you consider the modern gangster, who certainly must sacrifice every shred of his self-respect.

"In the old days the outlaw met his man face to face. He rode in the open, ready to meet all comers. He didn't ride in an armored car behind a machine gun. He had no bodyguard.

"Today the criminal shoots in the back and forfeits every right to the world's consideration. He kills first, robs afterwards, and never takes a chance. He is a rat. "Adventure played its part in luring young men to outlawry in the old days of the west. The dollar standard is the lure now."

—are buying our All-Silk Back Transparent Velvet at $3.45 yd. Why? Because even in their own city they cannot purchase the best velvet at so low a price. Velvets are selling in a big way at Neely's. A new stock of the best grade. Come and see for yourself. Velvets are leading in smart dresses.

You Can Not Beat These

Every day values at Neely's—whether it be Pequot Sheets, Muslins, Linen, Towels, Monk's Cloth, Silks, Hosiery, etc. Our buyers are alert to present day markets and conditions. We buy for cash, therefore we are able to get the lowest prices quoted on any market. We pass this saving on to you.

AFTER YOU COMPARE OUR BLANKETS

You will find that our regular prices are sale prices. It may sound strange, but women are not buying all-wool plaids this year. It's not the vogue. But the two-tone Horner Blankets are selling in a big way. Large, fluffy (not solid woven) blankets are in demand now—that's where Horner Blankets lead. By comparison you cannot afford to buy any other blanket but Horner. We're just lucky to have this line. Note—just a report from the Horner Mills—they are working 24 hours a day. They have added more workers—this means something.

We do not always advertise

Many items entering our store at special prices not advertised for certain reasons. These articles sell abundantly without ads or window displays. Neely's lead in present-day values. New merchandise in big shipments arriving daily.

WHAT'S NEW!

The greatest line of Children's Dresses—California Wonderland Frocks—at $1, $1.95 and $2.95. Another big shipment of Fiesta Crepes, Fall Dresses for women at a special price of $1.95. New Fall Pueblo Prints at a new low price of 21c. The greatest print value in America. It's the patterns and broadcloth finish fabric—150 new patterns.

We could carry on throughout this page, to tell you about the hundreds of new items just received. You can do it quicker by visiting this store.

AVOID ACID GASOLINE

It corrodes the needle valve in the carburetor, corrodes and gums motor valves, attacks bearings, pistons, cylinders and crankcase—eats metal wherever it contacts it.

You see the evidence in increasing gasoline consumption, gradual loss of motor pep, reduced power, and repair and upkeep costs, a good part of which are directly traceable to the effects of acid-gasoline.

Bear in mind, acids are not put into gasoline—they are there originally and their complete removal is one of the most perplexing problems of refining.

ANY GASOLINE (WHITE OR COLORED) MAY CONTAIN THESE METAL-EATING ACIDS WITHOUT YOUR KNOWING IT . . . UNLESS IT IS VIOLET-COLORED

VIOLET RAY ACID-FREE GASOLINE

Its violet color is the guarantee of Science to you that it contains no injurious acids as the slightest presence of naphthenic or sulphur-bearing acids would destroy its violet color and turn the gasoline back to white.

All acids are removed from Violet Ray gasoline by the exclusive Violet Ray process of refining which is protected by seven U.S. patents.

Violet Ray is the only gasoline sold on the Pacific Coast which is refined by this patented acid-eliminating process. The patents are owned and controlled by General Petroleum Corporation.

Thousands of motorists who have never before realized how simple and easy it is to avoid the penalty of acid gasoline, are turning to Violet Ray, the acid-free gasoline.

SCOTLAND YARD ADDS TO FORCE IN DRUG FIGHT

By WALLACE S. HULLETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON—In its endeavor to stop the sources of supply to addicts and to trace the movements of "dope" agents who sell the drugs, Scotland Yard has augmented the number of detectives dealing with the illicit traffic in dangerous drugs.

Drugs are brought to England mostly from Germany, and the "carriers" are so skilled that only complete stripping of every person who arrives at the ports could stop the traffic. Not long ago an airplane passenger was found with 5 pounds of cocaine strapped to his body.

The profits of the traffic have attracted aliens, who work with the greatest cunning. Although drugs are hawked about the West End it is impossible for anyone not well known to the agent to obtain a supply, and it is, therefore, extremely difficult to bring home to the agents their offenses.

Hundreds of people are known to have obtained drugs on bogus prescriptions ostentatiously signed by doctors of high repute.

When a druggist is handed such a prescription, he is expected to take precautions to see that it is genuine, but the prescription is always handed in at an hour when the doctor is known to be absent from his surgery and an immediate test is impossible.

The Home Office, it is believed, intends to issue new instructions to end this method of buying dangerous drugs.

DID YOU KNOW THAT— Sunday afternoon in St. Louis last fall. The A's had won the first two games in Philadelphia and the Cardinals had taken the first in St. Louis. Lefty Grove, regarded as the ace of present-day pitchers, was to leave the fourth game for the world champions. Old Jesse Haines was Gabby's choice to pitch the Cardinals to victory and even the series. That was a pitching battle. Speed, youth and fine control were on Grove's side. Seventeen years of experience, uncanny control and the best knuckle ball in the business were lined up with Jesse. The A's got four hits. The Cards got five. The final score was 3 to 1 for the Cardinals and the series was tied up at two victories apiece.

JUST ONE MORE FLING

After that remarkable exhibition of pitching wizardry, old Jesse told some of us that he believed he'd had enough. "I think I'll let it go at that now," he said. "A fellow does really get tired of this. I'm not the kid I used to be, you know." I thought he was sincere, and I still think he was. But that was October, and spring came as it always does. Spring has a way of calling the old-timers back for just one more fling.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The new football guide is just out . . . and the rules are nearly the same as they were last year! . . . One of the changes deals with penalties for fouls during the try-for-point after touchdown. . . The old method of awarding or forfeiting the point after a foul has been discarded, but the usual penalties of distance, as provided elsewhere in the rules will be in vogue. . . thus the responsibility placed directly on officials for the taking of giving of a point that might mean victory has been lifted. . . and, oh, yes, the "suggestion" made last year that headgear, jerseys and other appurtenances should not be the same color as the ball has been made a law for the season of 1931.

SANTA CRUZ TO RETURN: COACH COOK HOPEFUL

Encouraged by news that Captain Mike Santa Cruz will return to school and reports that a raft of promising prep material will enroll with the freshman class, Bill Cook, Santa Ana junior college football coach, was on record today with the guarded optimism that the Dons will have a "satisfactory season" on the grid this fall.

Back from a series of hunting and fishing excursions in Northern California and Mexico, Coach Cook has had time to make a cursory inspection of prospects and finds that no less than 14 lettermen will be on the string when practice begins September 8.

Chief among these, of course, is the strapping captain, Santa Cruz, who is expected to prove the jaycee conference's outstanding tackle. Persistent reports that Captain Mike was going to transfer to Santa Clara, St. Mary's or Southern California were discounted today, the Don skipper having definitely decided to stick with his followers here. It is said that Santa Cruz will transfer to U. S. C. in February when such big shots as Bob Hall, Ernie Smith, et al, will be Trojans no longer and the competition therefore exceedingly less spirited.

Harry Clayton, another regular tackle in '30, will be back, too, so Coach Cook will be well supplied in that department since Horace Bittner, Nelson Struck of Orange, Brooks Stroud of Garden Grove and several other county high school linemen may become Dons next month.

Returning lettermen beside Captain Santa Cruz and Clayton are Kermit ("Brick") McCoy, Charley Crumrine, Paul Bruce, Gil Kluthe, Solon Beal, "Toby" Groenow and Wayne Bartholomew, linemen, and Emmett Seacord, Bert Wilkins, Erv Watkins, Miles Priest and Kiyoshi Shikawa, backs. Shikawa, colorful Japanese fullback, may transfer to Fullerton jaycee. It is reported.

The Dons have arranged an interesting schedule which begins September 19 at Ontario against Bert Heister's Chaffey collegians. The next Saturday, September 26, Cook will take his troupe to the Coliseum to play the Southern California Frogs in a preliminary to the Trojan-St. Mary's varsity classic. The conference season, broken only by one non-league affair October 30 with the Loyola Freshmen, starts October 10 at Long Beach.

MAGIAS, RIVERS IN WILMINGTON DRAW

The welterweight championship of Santa Ana was still an open question today, following a heated battle at Wilmington last night between "Wild Man" Macias and Jimmie Rivers.

The Santa Anans swapped punches for ten rounds to a draw.

It was a dull, uninteresting affair. Macias appeared out of condition and Rivers, a clever fighter, marred an otherwise good performance by clinching whenever Macias attacked.

Joe Goodery, Santa Ana light heavyweight, stopped Sailor Maxwell of Wilmington in the fourth round of the semi-final. Gooders was down for nine and out on his feet in the second but weathered the storm and came back to outslug Maxwell.

His worries begin behind the line. He lost "Buddy" Foster and Earl Painter, two fast halfbacks; Captain Eddie Solomon, quarterback, and Ruben Thoe, a fine blocking back.

Here's Probable Backfield
The starting backfield probably will comprise Norman Duncan at full, Robert Hendry and Joe Keeble at halves and Leonard Bergdahl at quarter. Duncan and Keeble are regarded as certainities. Duncan's kicking and rare defensive play were highlights of last season.

Hendry, a good blocker and fast ball carrier, may get an argument from Bob Decker, whose deficient blocking retarded him last season.

All told, Spaulding has eight backfield prospects, and needs four more. He may take over a quartet of linemen.

Spaulding feels the matter of generalship is well in hand, if he can develop his backfield strength, regular and reserve.
Bergdahl Field General
Bergdahl seldom carries the ball, but has made a study of the game and has the presence necessary to inspire and maintain team morale. Decile is big, strong and loves football. Offensively, he specializes in line plunging. Defensively he should form a valuable bulwark behind the line, alternating at defensive fullback with Captain Duncan.

Report Troy, Alabama Game In '32

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Reports were current here today that negotiations were underway for the University of Alabama football team to meet University of Southern California in 1932.

In the three previous appearances of the Alabama team on the coast, the Tide won two and tied one.

Should the negotiations be successful it is believed the game will be played here since "Bama" officials are anxious to come to the coast.

CITY LEAGUERS MEET TONIGHT IN TITLE GAME

A championship of the second half of the split Santa Ana City league baseball schedule will be at issue tonight when the Moose lodge and the Public Playgrounds collide in the Bowl at 8 o'clock.

These two teams closed their regular seasons tied for first place, each with eight victories against one defeat, and a "one game series" will determine which gets the right to oppose the Hill-Cardens, first half champions, for the 1931 City League pennant.

Claude Gregory will be on the ridge for the Playgrounds with Bill Humphries chucking for the Moose. Noe will catch Gregory while Price will handle Humphries.

The rest of the probable lineups:
Moose—Lutz 1b; Stickler, 2b; El-Hott, 3b; Garlock, ss; Berry, if; Short, cf, Camp, rf.
Playgrounds—Dawson, 1b; Blower, 2b; Sullivan, 3b; Moyer, ss; Acker, if; Harnois, cf; Forrest, rf. Plans for the championship series between first and second half winners will be mapped out Friday at a 5 p. m. meeting at the Neal sporting goods store.

10,000 SEE DEMPSEY IN SEATTLE 'BOOTS'

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 27.—(UP)—Ten thousand Seattle fight fans who watched Jack Dempsey punch twice with 16-ounce gloves were convinced today that whether or not the old "Manassa Mauler" is still a good fighter he is a good entertainer and a powerful hitter.

Appearing in exhibition matches here, Dempsey fought two full rounds last night with Denny Lenhart of Portland, Ore., then boxed a round each with Bob Frazer and "Red" Tingley.

In all three matches, the former champion held his punches except occasionally when he forgot. On those occasions it was just too bad for the sparring partners. Both Lenhart and Tingley went down for nine counts and Frazer was groggy when his round ended.

Cornell supplied the heaviest and lightest oarsmen in the Poughkeepsie regatta this year. Clark at varsity No. 6 weighed 215, while Ellasberg, frosh coxswain, scaled 99 pounds.

ATHLETICS FIGHT ADVERSITY YET OUTCLASS FLAG RIVALS

BY HENRY MCLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics have placed the other seven clubs in the American league in a most embarrassing situation.

With the A's so far out in front they might as well be playing in another league, Washington, New York, Cleveland, etc., must admit one of two things: (1) That they are a pretty sorry bunch of ball players and incapable of offering first-class opposition, or (2), that the Athletics are one of, if not the best team, baseball has seen in a long, long while.

Personally, we believe item No. 2 comes nearer to being the truth. If ability to rise above all manner of handicaps is any criterion of greatness, then the 1931 Athletics certainly are one of the finest teams of all time. You will have to pore over the record books until you are weary before finding a club that suffered more misfortune than have the Mackmen of '31. And by misfortune, we mean injuries of all sorts and sickness.

department is up to some mischief, haven't been able to put their full strength on the field for more than one-fourth of their games; yet no matter what the combination manager Mack sends out on the field, his team continues to win with monotonous regularity.

This ability to win with one, two, three and sometimes four regulars out of the lineup cannot be attributed solely to the magnificent pitching of Grove and his boy friends. For no pitcher, no matter how great, is going to win if his mates play shoddily.

SET NEW YORK DEMPSEY BOUT FOR DECEMBER

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS)—Jack Dempsey's exhibitions in the west are for the purpose of fitting him for a comeback, it was revealed today.

Dempsey said so in a telephone conversation with Tom McArdle, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden. The ex-heavyweight champion figures he'll be in shape by Dec. 1 and will be ready to show in the Garden against any opponent McArdle selects.

The Garden wanted Dempsey for an outdoor show late next month. But Jack is booked solidly until the latter part of November. In addition to being engaged Dempsey says he needs the time to condition himself.

McArdle and President William F. Carey, excited by the mere suggestion that Dempsey's barnstorming tour had a serious idea behind it, forced him into a showdown by proposing an outdoor match here late in September. They offered him his choice of Paulino Uzcudun, Johnny Risko, Jose Santa or James J. Braddock, Dempsey answered.

"I'm not ready yet, but I will be. I promise you I'll go for Madison Square Garden indoors some time about December 1, and I won't ask to pick an opponent. You can do that."

"I'm really serious, but I'm not fighting notpunchers until I'm in top-notch condition. I figure I'll fight myself into shape, and gradually take on tougher fellows. By December I'll be ready for anyone. You can positively count on me for a Garden shot this winter."

PIPING 'EM OFF

Tickets for the fifth and perhaps final game of the series went on the market this morning with every prospect of a sellout. The sale will be conducted at Victor Walker's sporting goods store.

A little worried over the loss of Monday's melee, Manager George Face finally took the blinkers off his hard-hitting outfielder from Huntington Beach, Odie Maness, who boasts an average of .400. Maness didn't get a hit but he sent Leavitt Daley scurrying back to the tall unit for an eight inning fly.

Maness replaced Max Moody and gave Anaheim an all-foreign lineup. Catcher Lemon is from Fullerton, Pitcher Sabella from Los Angeles, First Baseman Scholder from Arlington, Second Baseman Preble from Santa Ana, Third Baseman Kohler from Long Beach, Shortstop Higgins from North Long Beach, Outfielder Maness from Huntington Beach, Outfielder Schuchardt from Santa Ana and Outfielder Rice from Pasadena. On the bench were Pitcher Errington from Arlington, Catcher Andrews from Pomona, Shortstop Neal from Long Beach, Utility Man Brandt from Fullerton.

Cornelius was hit hard at times and his outfielders had a busy evening. Leavitt Daley and Nelson handled the chase and assist on any other stop and assist on Scholder's high bounding "blooper" near first base in the sixth. No other pitcher in the league would have handled that ball.

Before the game, players and fans stood with bowed heads out of respect to the late Godfrey J. Stock, former Anaheim councilman, an ardent ball fan, who died early Tuesday after suffering a heart attack during Monday's game at the Bowl.

Anaheim's pitching has given it the lead in the series. Joe Cornelius has hurled brilliant ball for the Stars in every game but his team simply haven't suffered runs off the Valencia's powerful two-man staff. Santa Ana has manufactured only eight runs in four games—an average of two.

Having hurled four games in a week, Cornelius seemed entitled to a rest but with the series count 3-1 Manager George Lackaye hesitates to take a chance on any other pitcher. At that, Joe Ochso's fast ball might still Anaheim bats yet the old question would remain: Could the Stars make him enough runs to win?

Orv Schuchardt's home run was a line drive over Leavitt Daley which caught Daley playing in too close. The Valencia's almost had the same thing happen to them in the ninth when "Memphy" Hill doubled sharp.

VALENCIAS OUT TO CINCH FLAG FRIDAY NIGHT

"It won't be long now," chortled gleeful Anaheim today, and a solemn Santa Ana was reluctantly inclined to nod its head in acknowledgment.

Scoring their third victory in four starts with a barrage of hard and timely basehits in the eighth inning, the Valencia's swept one step nearer their championship goal last night.

The score was 3 to 1. Anaheim now needs but one more win to clinch the National Night league flag and enter the playoffs with Colton, American Night league titleholder, and the Valencia's rather expect to put over that victory here tomorrow night.

Their triumph for No. 3 was crisp, clean-cut.

Sabella Shades Cornelius
"Chico" Sabella shaded Joe Cornelius in a tight pitcher's duel in which both teams fielded perfectly and spectacularly behind their moundsmen.

Sabella allowed only three hits, fanned nine. His work was of the highest order, equalling the near no-hit game that his moundmate "Fuzzy" Errington registered the evening the big series started.

Only his own brief streak of wildness in the second inning cost him a shutout. He opened that round by passing Ed Daley and wild-pitching him to third base, Wayne Nelson's infield out scored Daley. The Stars never could coax another run out of the stingy "Chico".

Anaheim got the jump when Orv Schuchardt knocked a home run over Leavitt Daley in center field in Anaheim's first inning.

Valencia Break Through
After Santa Ana tied it in the second, the score went 1-1 until the last of the seventh when the Valencia's suddenly fell on Cornelius for the ball game.

Al Kohler started it with a scorching drive down the third base line that caromed off Darwin Scott's corns to the Anaheim players' bench for a double, Kohler's second two-bagger.

George Preble cracked a whistling single over second base, Kohler scoring and Preble streaking all the way to third. An Anaheim player's inaccurate throw-in, Preble tallied when lean Mal Higgins delivered his first hit of the series, a stinging single to left.

Both sides lost other opportunities to score.

Double Play Snaps Rally
A snappy double play snuffed out an Anaheim rally in the fourth which Kohler opened with a double to right. After Preble popped out, Rice lined to Nelson. Kohler took third after the catch but was picked off third when Cornelius intercepted Nelson's throw-in and relayed it to Scott.

Santa Ana's best chances came in the sixth and ninth.

With one away in the sixth, Cornelius walked, took second on a passed ball, Fulson fanned but "Memphy" Hill shot a single over second which Preble stopped with outstretched hand, Holding Cornelius on third. L. Daley then grounded to Kohler for the third out.

Hill led off in the ninth with a ringing double between Schuchardt and Rice but perished there when L. Daley lined to Higgins, Ed Daley popped to Lemon in front of the plate and Joe Mene, batting for Nelson, skied to Schuchardt to terminate the game.

Officer Risks His Life To Get Rare Flower for King

LONDON.—A wish expressed by King George for a rare flower sent a gallant young British officer scaling the dangerous ice-covered mountains of Burma, it was revealed here.

Upon a recent visit to Kew Gardens, the monarch noticed that the charming Alpine plant primula Sonchifolia, was dying out and expressed a desire that a specimen be secured. His Majesty's secretary conveyed the royal wish to an officer friend in Yunnan.

A few days later the young officer was on his way. After days of searching he found a cluster of the plants growing on the summit of an ice covered peak. They were enclosed in long bamboo and shipped to London.

A diary of his wanderings was kept by the officer and sent with the plants. It was said the King read the logs with great interest.

then ask yourself:

Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?

Wouldn't it be a thrill to start out on that Labor Day drive with a new set of handsome, safe, trouble-free Goodyears on your wheels?

Wouldn't it be a comfort to know you are going into the fall and winter motoring season with the best tire equipment on your car that money can buy?

Of course it would! Why don't you do it? You can afford it—with prices as low as these listed here, mileage is selling cheaper now than ever before.

When you buy Goodyears—whether the famous All-Weather Tread or the popular sturdy Pathfinder—you're buying the first-choice tires of the world.

If you have any doubt about this, just remember that for 16 years it has been a fact that

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Again, a great and unbiased public institution recently completed a nation-wide survey, asking American car owners "What tire is best?"

The vote, uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyears nearly 2 1/4 times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

It takes a great tire—an outstanding tire—to win public approval in this decisive fashion; it takes the kind of a tire you would like to own.

You can have that tire, at no extra price, if you'll guide your buying with the simple question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

MANHATTAN NIGHT

by William Abner Wolff

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS

Detected Sergeant Charley Mitchell, in Emma's night club, had just arrested Benny Russo, Evan Ross and Dr. Meyer Zahn, the Park Avenue set's psychoanalyst, for the murder of Tack Thayer. In his penthouse apartment, Inspector Connolly had suspected Martha Thayer, Tack's wife, and Ross, with whom she was in love, but Charley Mitchell did not share his suspicions and had asked Peter Wayne, Tack's college mate at Yale, to help him solve the mystery. Peter had fallen hopelessly in love with the wife of the heavy-drinking Tack when he returned to New York. Benny, who had been blackmailing Martha after Tack's Wall Street job had been jeopardized by heavy losses in a crap game at Emma's, had told Peter he must have "five grand" of Connolly's suspicions would be corroborated and he would learn where the pistol used by the murderer was hidden. Charley had found the pistol in a concealed safe in the Thayer fireplace and had fired a test shot from it into a pile of pillows. Both Martha and Ross had been patients of Dr. Zahn, who protested, when Charley snapped handcuffs on him, "Reilly, sergeant, I have a small standing in this city, after all—"

"TIME TO POLISH UP CARS" -- SAYS JAS. S. SIDFORD

"This is the time to polish up your automobiles," says J. S. Sidford, special agent of the Union Oil Company in Santa Ana.

"We've run our cars all summer and permitted them to get completely covered with traffic film. The easiest way to get this film off and brighten up the original finish, is to get a bottle of the new Union Automobile Polish and put it to work."

"This new polish was carefully developed at our refinery in Wilmington. Authorities say that it's the highest quality polish available at any price. It leaves a rich, hard finish that sheds road dust like a duck sheds water."

"That hard finish is the main reason why the lustre lasts so much longer when you use Union Automobile Polish."

You can get Union Auto Polish at any Union Oil Company service station and many other dealers. The price is $1.25 for the quart; 75c for the pint and 50c for the 1/2 pint size, according to Mr. Sidford.

pretty quick and attend to the complaints."

"Zahn, quiet, unresisting, let himself be led out to the elevator. Zach, looking bored, followed. Charley sank into a chair, wearily."

"Very nice," said Purdy. "Very nice indeed. Of course it's pretty much a Chinese puzzle to me, but I haven't been in on it." He smiled. "Benny came through, didn't he?" "I'll tell the world!" said Charley. "He's going to burn, and he knows it—and he don't want to go alone. Pete—you better beat it. You don't want to go over to the house—it'll be crawlin' with reporters ten minutes after the squalor are booked. Your sister down at your place, is she?"

"I suppose so," said Peter. "Look here—do you think I know what it all means? Because I don't!" "It's as plain as the nose on your face!" said Charley. "You got a few little things to clean up. One of them is seein' that what Ross tells the D. A. don't drag the madam in—and, by God, Connolly and Barclay owe her somethin' for the deal they tried to hand her! Get hold of Bouton and go on down and tell her it's O. K.—I'll be along if I can, but I've half a night's work ahead of me yet."

"But—"

"Oh—want me to spell it out for you? The doc was usin' what he found out for blackmail. Benny was one of his collectors—we'll get the others. He had Ross sewn up, and he used him to start somethin' with a dame that hadn't started somethin' herself first. Like he tried to with Mrs. Thayer. Only she was straight, as it happened—and, besides, Ross fell for this Gould woman and had to do some twomin' on his own account."

"They tried to work the Thayers both ways. Benny was gettin' all he could for the madam to cover up that check business—and at the same time he was workin' Thayer on account of Ross and the madam. Only Thayer was too smart for them. He pretended to be fallin' for it, and he came across—but all the time he was workin' to get back to the doc. He did it, too—that was why he was put out. The doc was smart. He figured out that he was in a jam from what Benny told him. The doc was the one planned the killin'—that was why he had to where every one was that night."

"Benny gave the check back to Thayer here. Then he trailed him home, went up the fire escape, and got in and shot him. It was Benny burned those papers—little idea of his own, that was. He had another bright idea, too. Thayer had that safe back of the fireplace open, and Benny wiped the gun clean and stuck it in there. But it was the doc figured out how to use Benny pulled on you was a stall—they never figured on gettin' any five grand out of you. They wanted you to tell the madam about the gun bein' there—and then they was goin' to tip Connolly off, so he'd give her a chance to get it and pinch her as she did it—when it wouldn't have any prints on it but here—"

"You got to hand it to the doc. He's full of smart ideas. He might have pulled a fast one there but for two things. One was that you and me was workin' together, and the other was that Connolly was ready to pinch Mrs. Thayer without any tip from him. But the thing that beat him was what always beats that particular kind of smart guy—that he has to work with dumb ones like Benny. I had Benny sewn up before I ever found the watch."

"Something to do with that stunt you pulled down in Mercer street—firin' that gun at the pillows?" "Right. I got a break there—two or three breaks. But I had them comin' to me. First off, I wanted to check on whether that gun was the one that had been used to kill Thayer. Then there was something else. I'd been figurin' on Benny's being the one who bumped him off. And I had something up my sleeve. There was a shootin' up here a while ago. Benny plugged a guy one night in self-defense—no argument about that. I didn't pinch Benny, an' I even let him keep his cannon. But I got the bullet out of the fella's arm that was shot. Seemed to me it might come in handy some time, Benny being the sort of gorilla he was."

"Maybe you don't know it, but every bullet that's fired carries the signature of the gun that fired it. There's markin's from the riflin' of the barrel that's as easy to read as fingerprints when you know how. So, this afternoon, I had three bullets. The one we knew had killed Thayer, the one I knew Benny had pumped into this guy's arm—and the one you saw me shoot into these pillows. I had them all checked up while you waited for me, before we ate. We got a lot of experts down at Headquarters that can do anything from read a Chinese laundry to tellin' you was a button sewn on to a pair of pants here or in Scotland. They eat their heads off, mostly, but they come in handy, every so often."

"Well—I had Benny, the minute I knew those three bullets was all fired by the same gun. But I didn't have the doc—no? That was why I pulled the grand stand stuff with the watch. It took somethin' like that to make Benny crumple up and come across. He'll tell a story now that all the lawyers the doc can hire can't break."

"Thayer—well, I guess he had his faults. But his number went up because he was game enough to go up against a blackmailin' gang that was tryin' to do his wife dirt. When you come down to it, he was the one broke it up, too. They's a lot of women in this town can breathe easier after they read that the doc's in jail. That's the low down, Pete. Chase yourself, now. Tell the madam from me she can quit worryin'. You'll be seein' Connolly before I get there, maybe. Gentle him along. A bear with a sore tooth'll be nothin' beside him when he finds out what I've put over on him this night!"

Business Woman Plan Park Breakfast For Sunday

But one more day remains for members of the Business and Professional Women's club to make reservations for the breakfast to be given Sunday morning in Hewes park by the club finance committee, according to Miss Martha Whitson, committee chairman.

Planned as a means of raising money to carry on the altruistic activities of the organization, the breakfast also was suggested as a pleasant social affair to bring the members into a closer friendship. Plans as announced at Monday's luncheon by Miss Whitson, were for an elastic hour so that those who did not care to go to the park too early might be served at 9:30 o'clock although serving will begin at 8:30.

Those who did not make reservations Monday, may telephone Miss Lena Thomas at the First National bank any time up to Friday afternoon but the committee must know by that time, exactly how many are expecting to attend. Members may invite guests if they will inform the committee how many will be in their party.

Miss Thomas, who is a member of the August program committee, today announced that the meeting in Ketter's gold room next Monday noon, will have for its program, a talk by Miss Dorothy Wentz on "Experiences of a Librarian in the Children's Library of Honolulu."

Miss Wentz, a niece of Judge Home G. Ames, has come to the Southland to live and beginning September 1, will assume her duties as supervisor of children's reading in the Orange county library.

Picnic at Park Honors Mrs. D. P. McBurney

An enjoyable picnic honoring Mrs. D. P. McBurney, 720 East Second street, who will leave soon for Carthage, Mo., to visit her father, D.S. Emerson, was given Tuesday night at Irvine park. A group of relatives took part in the merry affair.

The popular big trees of the park shaded the tables where the delectable picnic menu was served early in the evening.

Those taking part, other than the honored guest, Mrs. McBurney, were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smiley, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smiley, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Beall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Miscellaneous Shower Is Lovely Event for Miss Silver

One of the week's prettiest pre-nuptial parties was that of yesterday evening, when Mrs. Gail Jordan entertained, honoring Miss Wilma Silver, whose marriage to Alan Morse Smith is to be an event of September 1. Mrs. Jordan welcomed her guests in her home at 1727 North Main street.

The chosen decorative effect was an artistic one, finding expression in the yellow chrysanthemums and dahlias which adorned the home. During the evening, while bridge games were in session, orange and pineapple punch were served.

Pretty table appointments, enhanced by slender vases of red roses used as centerpieces, and a delightful menu, all contributed to the charm of the refreshment hour which followed the evening's diversion. Fresh fruit salad in cantaloupes was served with dainty sandwiches and coffee.

Presentation of prize awards followed, with Miss Jean Silver receiving a hand-fringed luncheon set for scoring high. For holding second and third high honors, Miss Frances Bowman and Mrs. Leland Finley were given scented bath powder and hand-blocked stationery.

Miss Silver's shower gifts were presented her in a lovely big box tied with shiny satin ribbons and sprays of fragrant orange blossoms, which contributed to the bridal theme. Enclosed were many gifts of miscellaneous order.

Those present to honor Miss Silver, other than the hostess, Mrs. Jordan, were Miss Rowena Moore, Miss Frances Battey, Miss Nell Bales, Miss Lois Reese, Miss Lucille Bales, Miss Eleanor Ralston, Miss Frances Bowman, Miss Jean Silver, Miss Ethel Smallwood, Miss Frances Barr, Miss Virginia Forney, Mrs. H. Ray Smith, Mrs. Leland Finley, Mrs. June Healy, Miss Ruth Armstrong and Mrs. Norman Pixley of Pasadena.

Buffet Luncheon Given In Summer Home for Popular Guests

A buffet luncheon followed by an afternoon of bridge was the pleasant fashion chosen by the Misses Helen and Laura Porter of Fullerton to compliment Mrs. Joseph Thompson of Waco, Tex., on a recent afternoon.

The sister hostesses staged their hospitality in their Ocean Front cottage at Newport Beach, where they were assisted in greeting their guests by another sister, Mrs. Chester Donley of Brawley, who has been spending part of the summer with them.

The informal serving of the inviting luncheon menu was quite in keeping with the carefree atmosphere of a summer home, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. It was followed by the bridge contest in which Mrs. Robert Gregg of Anaheim scored high and Mrs. Fred Newcomb, Jr., second high. When the attractive prizes were presented, an equally desirable guest prize was given Mrs. Thompson.

Sharing the refreshing afternoon by the sea were the hostesses and their honor guest, Mrs. Thompson, their sister, Mrs. Conley, Mrs. Tarter Montgomery and her house guest, Mrs. John Wilson of Calcutta; Mrs. Clarence A. Nilsson, Miss Gertrude Montgomery, Miss Louise Montgomery, Mrs. Harry Westover, Mrs. Fred Newcomb, Jr., Mrs. Robert Gregg of Anaheim and Mrs. Robert Mize.

Popular Orange Girl Complimented at Bridge Shower

Coming as a charming compliment to Miss Vernell Butler of Orange, bride-elect of Alex Chastain of the same city, was the bridge party at which Miss Janet Watson entertained last evening in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Watson, South Glassell street, Orange.

Early in the evening, bridge was introduced, and the checking of tallies revealed that Miss Eugenia Richards scored high, for which she received a pretty black vase. For scoring second high, Miss Eunice Douglas was awarded a bon-bon dish, and Miss Mavis Campbell was consoling with a package of dainty bridge sugar-lilies.

In the interval which followed, refreshments were served at the card tables centered with small crystal candelabra bearing pastel-tinted tapers. They harmonized with the decorative motif of the evening, for bouquets of blue delphinium and baby glade in tints of pink were artistically arranged throughout the home. Assisting hostesses as this time were Mrs. Watson and Miss Evelyn Woodruff.

A surprise feature of the evening came when the group was listening over the radio to the orchestra at the Rendezvous ballroom, and a special number was played honoring Miss Butler and Miss Helen Terry. Miss Terry soon is to become the bride of Joseph M. Ferguson, of Balboa and Glendora.

To conclude the affair, Miss Butler was presented with an array of miscellaneous gifts, arranged in a large clothes basket decked with crepe paper and fluffy tulle.

Those present, other than the honoree, Miss Butler, were Mesdames Margaret Scott, Mabel Faulkner, Ivy J. Lee, Robert Campbell, John D. Campbell, and the Misses Fern Summer, Evelyn Woodruff, Clara Fraser, Eunice Douglas, Shirley Haynes, Helen Estock, Helen Lush, Helen Baker, Janet Ellish, Frances Harper, Helen Terry, Ruth Beryl, Dorothy Frerking, Beryl Campbell, Joanna Day, Mildred Watson, Bernel Miller, Eugenia Richards, Doris Stafford, Elizabeth Palmer, Marcelina Turner, the hostess, Miss Watson and Mrs. Watson.

Woman's Relief Corps Has Pleasant Luncheon

A pleasant luncheon meeting was held yesterday afternoon by members and guests of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps No. 1, who gathered in the Knights of Pythias hall, Mrs. Margaret Hill was in charge of kitchen preparations for the affair, while Mrs. Elizabeth Birkhead was chairman of the committee presiding in the dining-room.

The business of the afternoon was conducted by the president, Mrs. Kinah Brown. Eleven officers, 21 members and three comrades were present. The latter group included Commander J. H. Brown, P. J. Spencer and G. W. Rolfe. Members were especially glad to welcome Mr. Rolfe to the meeting, for illness has prevented his attending any affairs for the past several weeks.

Mrs. Nannie Meyer was received as a new member of the Corps. Reports of the recent luncheon meeting held recently at Fullerton were given by members who attended. Draping of the charter for Mrs. Helene Galbraith and Mrs. Emma G. Smith, former members of the Corps and of the Twenty-five Year Service club, was a feature of the meeting.

Santa Anan in Party Welcomed to Home Of Picture Star

An enjoyable evening spent in the homes of some of Hollywood's most famous screen celebrities was the experience enjoyed Tuesday evening by Mrs. Ruth E. Gilbert, daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Dixon, 1138 South Ross street.

Mrs. Gilbert was the guest of Charles ("Chuck") Myers, one of the principal directors of the Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer company, who has just returned from the east, where he was on location with Conrad Nagel. The early hours of the evening were spent in the beautiful home in Beverly Hills of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd and later the guests went to the home of Harold Lloyd's father.

The senior Mr. Lloyd, with his fiancée, Miss Helen Marshall, and a party of prominent Beverly Hills and Hollywood people, including the mother of Bebe Daniels, are leaving Sunday from Los Angeles harbor for the boat trip to New York City. After some time in the east, the entire party will spend the autumn in Florida, returning to California in mid-winter.

Mrs. Gilbert had the pleasure of being shown over the handsome Lloyd home, seeing the famous French room and other interesting features, as well as the formal gardens and the swimming pool. One of her mementoes of the interesting evening is an autographed portrait of Harold Lloyd.

Mr. Myers was in New York for some six weeks, completing scenes for the Nagel picture soon to be released. He returned to Hollywood by automobile, although Conrad Nagel made the return trip by airplane. Myers was director for such recent successes as "Broadway Melody," "The Goddess Girl," "The Face," and many others. Having the entire to the homes of the various screen stars and film celebrities, he has planned many other pleasant affairs for the entertainment of Mrs. Gilbert.

Beach Summer Home Is Scene of Much Entertaining

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brain have returned to their home in Los Angeles after a pleasant stay as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Watkins in their summer home, Stonehenge, at Coast Royal. The four also enjoyed a trip to Catalina as a feature of the visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins are returning soon to their Santa Ana home at 1502 North Ross street, after a summer marked by an unusual amount of entertaining. They seemed to maintain open house at Stonehenge, and during the past three months have greeted a total of 229 guests from time to time.

This number included those attending several pleasant club affairs held in the early summer, notably, the Santa Ana Woman's club, which held its annual mid-summer picnic at the Watkins' home; Ethel's second travel section and second household economics section, and Torosa Rebekah Past Noble Grands' association. The largest crowd at any one gathering was in June, when 51 picknickers enjoyed the Woman's club function.

ICE CREAM-STUFFED ROLLS

The best ice cream I've eaten in a blue moon was made in a mechanical refrigerator, with whipped evaporated milk used in place of the richer fresh whipping cream. The milk is first boiled in the can for 20 minutes, chilled thoroughly, then whipped, and these are the proportions needed to make one panful.

1 cup chilled evaporated milk, whipped to a froth, but not stiff
1/2 cup sugar
10 or 12 ripe peaches, diced and mashed

After whipping the milk as directed, add it to the crushed peaches and sugar, pack into the pan and set in the freezing chamber at the temperature designated for freezing desserts.

I had luncheon at a friend's house a few days ago and she served the most intriguing little stuffed rolls I've ever eaten. She took crescent rolls, cut them across and with a fork scooped out the soft bread center. Deviled ham was made into a soft paste with mayonnaise and a little mustard and this was used to stuff the halved rolls, then they were toasted and served with salad.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Apple Cottage Pudding

6 large green apples
1 cup sugar for apples
1 tablespoon butter
warm or nutmeg or cinnamon

Batter Part

3 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg well beaten
1-3 cup milk
1 rounded teaspoon baking powder
Sifted flour to make thin cake batter, about 1 cupful
1 teaspoon mixed, vanilla and lemon extract

As a child I think I've eaten this pudding made with every kind of fresh fruit, and loved them all. Perhaps because the healthy appetite of childhood added spice to everything that came my way.

Peel and slice the apples into a deep baking dish, dredge them with sugar, bits of butter and the dash of spice. Set them into the hot oven to get started while you mix the batter.

Cream the butter and sugar, add the egg and whip well. Pour in the milk, stir in a half-cup of flour, sifted with salt and baking powder, whip with egg beater and add just enough more flour to make the batter like good thick cream, or cup cake batter. Put in the flavoring extracts and spread this batter in a thin layer over the apples. Bake until the apples are done and the batter which has run down into the apples thoroughly baked. Serve hot, with cream and sugar.

Rhubarb starts this kind of pudding off in springtime, while late peaches and blue plums end it beautifully in the fall.

And the calories?—2575 of them, not including cream and sugar, and for these trimmings charge each person another 250 energy calories. Portions for eight or more in this recipe.

"Pickling Gems," the current leaflet, is just what the title says. I have spent the week gossiping with my old-lady friends, getting from each her choicest pickle recipe, and a few of the best you'll find in this very choice collection. You may have it without charge if you'll send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

String Beans, Creole style, will be the recipe for Friday.

"TOP SPEED" NOW AT WALKER STATE

Score another hit to the credit of First National "Top Speed," that company's latest product, starring such players as Joe E. Brown, Bernice Claire, Laura Lee, Frank McHugh, Jack Whiting, and a host of others, comes forth from Hollywood as the finest comedy yet screened or staged.

At Walker's State theater yesterday "Top Speed" had the audiences in roars that threatened to drown out the picture. Joe E. Brown has the role of a bragging, exaggerating broker's clerk who is spending a week end at an exclusive country club, quite by accident.

What becomes of rich society girls who lose their money and their social standing?

They become social secretaries, as is shown in "Secrets of a Secretary," now showing at the Fox West Coast theater. The picture stars Claudette Colbert and gives her a role in which she is best liked, that of a courageous girl who fights her own fights and who can take it on the chin when necessary.

The plot concerns a bad marriage this rich girl makes. Her husband deserts her when her money is gone and she goes to work. Knowing life in the rough she is well prepared for the trouble she finds. The play was well received here yesterday when it opened.

Anna Wong, S. Hayakawa Here Friday

Anna May Wong makes her debut in talking pictures and Sessue Hayakawa, former well known screen star, returns to the silver sheet after 12 years in "Daughter of the Dragon," which comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow and Saturday.

Miss Wong plays the part of Ling Moy, daughter of Dr. Fu Manchu, sworn to a blood oath to bring death to the man she loves. The picture is a masterpiece of melodrama, richly colored with romance and its suspense is electric. "Daughter of the Dragon" carries on the adventures of crafty Fu Manchu (played by Warner Oland) in his relentless pursuit of revenge. It finds Anna May Wong leading her father's murderous followers against Scotland Yard.

It is a weird drama that will prove one of the most interesting pictures of its kind seen here in a long time.

FASHIONS

At the Fox Broadway theater tonight only, Almqvist's Style Shop will model some 60 of the season's latest women's garments in connection with the opening of the latest Joan Crawford picture, "This Modern Age."

VAUDEVILLE TO GIVE CRAWFORD FILM SEND OFF

Joan Crawford's latest "whoopie" picture, "This Modern Age," which opens at the Fox Broadway theater today, is to be given an auspicious opening with the staging of a fall fashion show by the Almqvist Dress Shop, and a stage presentation which will include several acts of high class vaudeville.

Plans for the gala opening tonight were completed by Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager here, yesterday as he announced the entire show.

The Fashion Review will be one of the big events of the "Month of Stars" campaign in Santa Ana. Sixty garments are to be modeled, the models coming from Hollywood for the occasion, and all clothes shown will be on sale at the Almqvist store after the review.

Serene & Fulkerson, new shoe dealers in Santa Ana, at Fourth and Sycamore streets, also will model new shoes during the entertainment. It was announced, and flowers with which the stage will be decorated will be the offering of the Mission Florists of Santa Ana.

Holman Here

Aside from the display of the new fall clothes by Almqvist, Manager Sprowl has booked several acts of vaudeville which will include a one-act play by Harry Holman and his company. Holman was seen here throughout this week in the picture "Sporting Blood" as the race horse buyer who purchased the famous "Tommy Boy" for a song, and the fact that he follows on the stage in one of his own plays is a coincidence. Other acts include the McCune Sisters, in songs and dances; Scofield Sisters, three lovely little singers seen here several times, and either Johnson and Doker in their "crazy" but throwing act or the "California Whirlwinds," a fast roller skating act.

The Fox West Coast orchestra will furnish music during the entertainment.

"This Modern Age" is the story of a girl and her modern mother, who live in Paris. They pal together more like sisters than daughters, both representatives of two generations, until a serious minded youth enters the picture and the girl wants to settle down and marry him. The mother and her fast life almost wreck the happiness of the girl, but in a sensational ending the picture proves that love can stand any test and, of course, the girl gets her man.

The part of the mother is played by Pauline Frederick and others in the cast are Neil Hamilton, Monroe Owsley, Hobart Bosworth and Emma Dunn.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Said Scouty, "It is lots of fun to watch how furniture work is done. I think the workman's clever. Maybe we can help a bit. I'd like to push a real sharp saw." Another Tiny answered, "Aw, I don't think you could make a chair on which I'd care to sit." The workman heard their chatter and he said, "Well, you can lend a hand. I have some chairs all finished. Would you like to paint a few?" "You bet!" cried Scouty. "I'll be fun and they will very soon be done. Nice painting is the one thing that we all know how to do."

So pots of paint were brought right out and soon the Tynites set about the task that was before them. Watching them was quite a sight. "Be careful," said the Travel man, "and do the best job that you can. It's better to take longer and be sure the job is right."

It wasn't long until one chair was finished. Scouty shouted,

"There! How does that look?" The workman answered, "Very fine indeed!" The Travel Man then said, "Well, we upon our way must shortly be. We're going to Peru and we will take a plane for speed."

They bid the furniture man goodbye and soon were sailing through the sky. The town of Huancaya was their landing point and gee, it was a very pretty place. A smile spread on each Tiny's face. Scouty said, "I have a hunch that some fine things we'll see."

And he was right. The sights were rare. One Tiny said, "Look over there!" He pointed to some women who were sitting on the ground. They're making shawls and fine scarfs, too," the Travel Man said. "All of you can watch them, if you care to." So the Tynites gathered 'round.

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

Late News From Orange County Communities

Beach City Officials Oppose Negro Project

LEASE SIGNED FOR ORPHANAGE BY L. A. GROUP

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 27.—A Los Angeles negro institution has rented a two-story frame building on Third street near Orange and is having the place fitted up for accommodation of 37 negro orphan boys of Los Angeles, who will be entered in the public schools here if the board of education permits. The boys range in age from seven to 20 years, it is stated.

There are no negro residents in Huntington Beach and the deeds granted by the Huntington Beach company include a provision that tenancy and ownership of all lots in the city must remain in the Caucasian race. It is felt here that this provision will prevent the negro orphanage management carrying out their plans.

W. S. Osborn, president of the chamber of commerce, telephoned J. S. Lawshe, manager of the Huntington Beach company, relative to this provision in all property deeds yesterday. Mayor Ellison G. Conrad stated that the building now being fitted up was not suitable for the purpose of an orphanage or institute and would not be allowed to house one. Warren J. Bristol, member of the elementary school board, said the school here would not permit the entrance of the negro boys until a court order compelled them to do so.

The preparations made at the property include electric wiring for the different rooms and repainting and repapering. Some furnishings have been brought in. The former tenant of the property was ordered to vacate and moved out. The property is owned by a non resident owner and the deal for the negro occupancy was made by a Los Angeles real estate firm. It is said the negroes took a three-year lease on the property.

Fox Is Captured By Mesa Youths

COSTA MESA, Aug. 27.—Fox hunting remains a sport in the Costa Mesa district. Harold Long, John Bailey, Ed Starkey and Mike Van Dyke gave chase to an animal which crossed Twentieth street in front of their car.

They finally cornered the animal in a barn and found that it was a silver fox. It belonged to Chester Fisher, who has a silver fox farm on Twenty-first street.

CASH BALANCE OF $30,275.96 IN SCHOOL FUND

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—A cash balance of $30,275.96 remains in the treasury of the Fullerton Union High school and college treasury, it was announced today following the issuance of a detailed report of the financial status of the school by Dan Henry, auditor and business manager of the school.

In explaining the surplus left from last year's operations, Henry pointed out that $5,427.23 of the total is the bond sinking fund in the county treasury.

Comparative costs of fiscal years, 1929-30 and 1930-31 were shown by Henry, indicating a saving of $11.13 a student last year over the preceding year. In this connection, administrative, teachers' salaries and library and texts showed an increase in student costs, while operation of the school plant and transportation and other auxiliary agencies represented such substantial savings that the total was reduced.

Administrative costs increased from $13,649 to $21,653 last year. Teachers' salaries also showed a gain from $238,925 to $264,798. Instruction expense decreased from $791 to $691, as did the operation of the school plant from $52,358 to $43,348. Library and texts increased from $15,224 to $18,352. Plant maintenance decreased from $25,956 to $20,450. Transportation and other auxiliary agencies were cut from $28,724 to $16,144.

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 27.—Ben Weston, Balboa angler, caught his big fish a little bit late.

Yesterday he landed a 344-pound marlin, hooking it just off the entrance to Newport harbor, and it was the biggest swordfish ever landed here—except the record 692-pound giant brought in last week by Alfonso M. Hamann, Balboa druggist.

Weston was alone in his own boat, just off the jetty, and he got his quarry after an hour and 45 minutes of battling. This is not only the second largest swordfish ever caught here, but among the largest caught anywhere with a standard 24 tackle. But for Hamann's sensational catch, Weston would have been strictly in the swordfishing limelight today.

Angling experts declare that the remarkable swordfish run normally should continue for another month. The records of past years show that September is a bigger and better month for this much-sought game fish than any other month in the year.

Altogether six swordfish were weighed in here yesterday at the Washington street pier on the bay. This brought the season's total to 54, which would be by far the biggest season here, even if no more were caught from now on.

C. H. Hopkins of this city got his second of the season, weighing 175 pounds, in a 35-minute battle. On the same boat, the Daisy, James Ludlam of Portland, got a 137-pounder in 40 minutes. Jimmy Stephenson was the boatman and reported also that a king dolphin, also a prize game fish, was caught therefrom.

N. Boomhour, who has hunted big game in Africa, got a 151-pound marlin on the boat Dandy, piloted by J. B. McNally, in an hour and 55 minutes. William Henry, of Huntington Beach, took 20 minutes to land one weighing 155 pounds, on C. F. Axelsson's boat, the Amaya, while Robert Russell of this city hooked a specimen which tipped the scales at 91 pounds.

MESSRS. HERNDON AND PANGBORN

The difficulties of Messrs. Herndon and Pangborn, young American aviators, trying to get through Japan is an astonishing indication of the fear which has the peoples of several nations in its grip. The two fliers, from a considerable altitude, took some amateur movies of the scenery below them. The Japanese authorities professed to discover that the film included a picture of the fortified island of Hokkaido. Some who saw the film said that it did not picture the Hokkaido fortifications; others declared it did; others said that they were taken at such an altitude that they had no military value whatever. In any case, every nation has more information in its archives about the fortifications and military and naval resources of every other country than two fliers at a high altitude and taking a moving picture could reveal.

The Japanese authorities who are making trouble for Herndon and Pangborn profess to believe that the aviators are spies discovering Japanese naval secrets. It is extremely doubtful whether these Japanese really believe as they pretend to believe. But it is a part of the game of the officials of certain countries to convince the people of their countries that there are sinister plots against them. A conviction of such a situation encourages a certain brand of patriotism; it makes it easier to get funds for maintenance of armies and navies.

In Russia, in France, in Japan, in Italy, there are powerful elements constantly zealous in their endeavor to convince the people that other nations are planning attacks upon them; are about to invade; that all the world is "agin' them." It justifies enormous military and naval expenditures.

The Herndon-Pangborn incident was diligently capitalized.

This is the time of year graduates decided not to allow their college education to interfere with their chances of getting a job.

RADIO CITY

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon, even their mythical description, are about to be eclipsed by New York roof gardens. Included in the plans for Radio City, the great transformation in Manhattan which John D. Rockefeller jr. is backing, are formal gardens over eight of the twelve acres from which spring the tall buildings of Radio City. The gardens, planned at lesser heights than the tip top of the tallest building, will be fine sights to look down upon. The roof view of New York will be transformed. Formerly it was paradise enough to look out of the windows of one of the tall buildings of New York, even though the vista did include ugly and dirty and angular roofs and ventilators and mechanisms. There was expanse and inspiration. But now, added to that, from the windows of Radio City and the tall buildings adjacent the busy business man can look down upon Persian and French gardens and see there, brought close to him, the reminder that after all he really should be working for happiness and for leisure and for play, as Will Rogers was told in his latest picture, "Young As You Feel."

The staggering of the stories of these buildings, and they must be staggered to conform to the building laws of New York, permit of fine terraces. The next thing, we will see pictures of the peacocks strutting on the terraces. One of the pictures of the plans shows a series of fountains. Behold! the roof gardens of New York not only will eclipse the gardens of Babylon but the fountains of Versailles. It's a great age.

LIBELING POSTERITY

The other day it was noted that a man in Kansas, or somewhere, was building a pyramid in which he planned to place all modern contraptions, the radio, the automobile, the airplane, the telephone, etc. His idea seems to be to lessen the burdens of invention of the people a thousand or two thousand years from now. By digging around in this pyramid they can find all these specimens and go on living from where we left off, or something like that.

Someone suggested that those people of the future probably wouldn't know how to make use of the inventions. That is a libel on posterity. We are more loyal than that. We bet on our descendants of the year 3000. We might just as well stand in as well as we can with them. If a little thing like speaking well of their ability will help, we are for shouting encomiums.

GUARANTEED EMPLOYMENT

There is nothing like public clamor and the suggestion of certain forms of social legislation to awaken the industrial interests to the needs of new measures for new occasions. Big business as a whole is opposed to unemployment insurance and old age pensions. But the seriousness of the unemployment situation in the country has arrested the attention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and a committee was appointed to suggest some means by which employment could be guaranteed. This committee is to report on September 1.

The matter was particularly discussed at the last annual meeting of the chamber, following an address by an officer of the Procter & Gamble company of Cincinnati, soap manufacturers. This concern adopted a plan on the first of August, 1923, guaranteeing to its employees forty-eight weeks of steady employment every year. By means of strict economies in budgeting and the study of markets and sales possibilities on an extensive scale, the plan has been worked out to the benefit of the company as well as to the employees. The general adoption of such a plan in business generally would do much to allay the agitation for legislation of a questionable sort.

While we have always been doubtful of governmental interference with the natural trends of business, we recognize that the general unwillingness of business to meet exigencies as they arise has compelled the government to take steps for the correction of abuses or to guarantee relief from the inexorable workings of unhuman economic laws. As a general rule, business lags behind rather than leads in matters which make for the correction of abuses. For this reason the force of government is appealed to so often by the victims of unjust or imperfect economic laws. It has been too true that business men come to their senses only when public opinion is marshaled against them.

Should a movement such as has been inaugurated by the United States Chamber of Commerce be developed on a scale of positive progress, and not just to sidetrack unemployment insurance, a long step toward the stabilization of trade and industry may be looked for.

"Tosh," Says the Abbe
New York Times

There are plans for a 200-inch reflecting telescope. What may not still huger light-gatherers disclose? New "island universes," unsuspected archipelagos of suns, great variables that alternately flare up and die with clocklike regularity, the frontiers of the cosmos pushed further out—the imagination conjures up rich possibilities.

"Tosh," says the Abbe Lemaitre, or words to the same mathematical effect, in a report to the Royal Astronomical Society of London. His dash of cold water is a fine corrective for idle dreaming. Just now his expending universe is so popular that Einstein's static, cylindrical model looks as old-fashioned as a high-wheel bicycle. He is one of the best mathematical physicists alive.

Why does the Abbe say tosh? Because of the Doppler shift—a cryptic term for a simple phenomenon. Something like it occurs when a locomotive rushes at high speed toward or from us while it blows its whistle. There is a shifting of the pitch and we hear a howl. So with the outer stars. Their light "howls" in a sense because they rush away at a speed of thousands of miles a second.

Build your colossal telescope, says the Abbe; it will avail you nothing. The deeper you penetrate space the more marked is the shift to the red. Eventually a point is reached—850 million parsecs, each equal to 32 million miles—where all rays are so far shifted into the infra-red that a sensitive photographic plate sees nothing. The Mount Wilson 100-inch mirror pierces to 50 million parsecs. Much deeper probing is hardly feasible.

The Abbe similarly disposes of another piece of wonder-seeking. Inasmuch as space is finite and curved, in these Einsteinian days, a ray of light turns back on itself. Even astronomers have asked whether there is any chance of seeing a star twice—once as it is and again as it was in its infancy. Tosh, says the Abbe again. Granting the thing is theoretically possible, the distance covered is so stupendous that the curving light of the star would shift itself out of existence not long after it started to revisit itself.

Sam, Sometimes

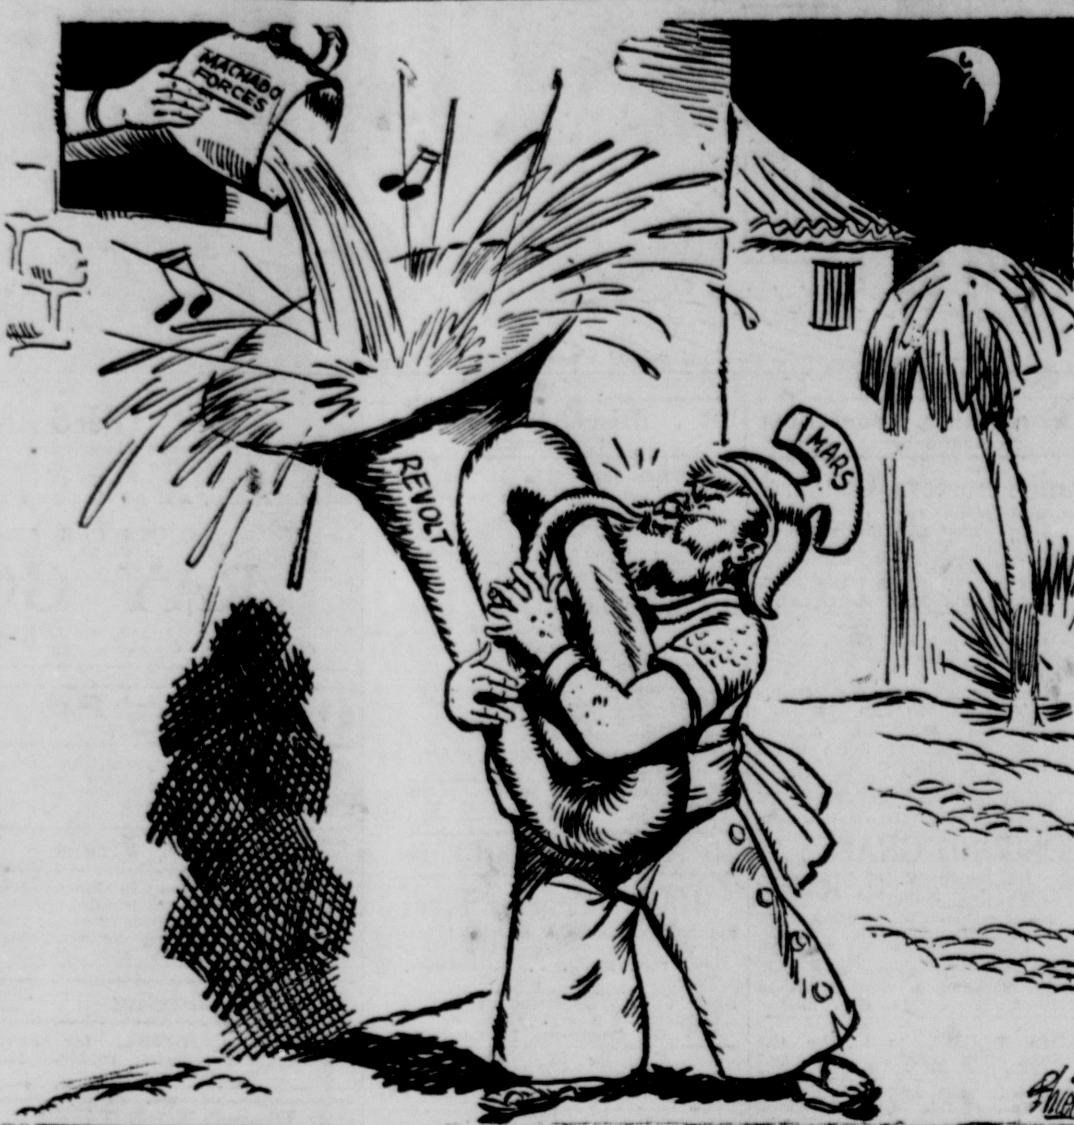

Christian Science Monitor

Should biographers call their subjects by their Christian names? This is a question to which a leader writer in The Times of London has just solicited the world's attention. Some biographers apparently have begun to call Matthew Arnold "Matt" and Horace Walpole "Horry." But this is not all. Certain people have been known, with "incredible rudeness," to refer to Miss Austen as "Jane." Definitely, The Times does not like this kind of thing. Familiarity breeds contempt.

But, after all, there is another side to the case. The old biographies, which were so scrupulously polite to those whose stories they were telling, were often also formal, lifeless and dull. Frequently their central figure was nothing more than a dignified automaton performing a series of meaningless evolutions.

The modern biography, with its intimate air, often has reality and vigor. Moreover, are there not sound artistic reasons for sometimes using the Christian name? Jane Austen was not always a prime, demure young lady with a premature early Victorian appearance, as the formal "Miss Austen" would suggest. On the contrary, she was frequently light-hearted, gay, even flirtatious—in fact, certain phases of her character positively demand that her biographer should sometimes call her "Jane." It is the same with Dr. Johnson, whom the "Thunderer" does not like to think of as "Sam." On certain occasions the great lexicographer was undoubtedly "Dr. Johnson," dignified, ponderous, overwhelming, as, for example, in his sledgehammer retorts to Boswell and his famous reply to Lord Chesterfield. At other times, as when, for instance, roused by Topham, Beauclerk and Langford, he once appeared at his door in a nightshirt and wearing a black wig, with a poker in his hand, to announce that he was ready for a frolic even though it was three in the morning, he was no less obviously "Sam." Indeed, in the future one of the tests of a good biographer will be his ability to see where "Dr. Johnson" ends and "Sam" begins.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

GOOD-BY, BUGS, I'M THROUGH

I have always been keen for a garden; With stern and laborious toil I have wielded a hoe in an effort to grow Tomatoes and beans from the soil. But my efforts have always been baffled. As I knew they would be in advance, The result of my toil became always the spoil Of industrious beetles and ants.

The ants brought the gluttonous aphids, Which gnawed through both leaf and through stem; I could drive the bold ants from my tender young plants But I never could circumvent them. The beetles chewed up all the bean vines, And though billions I bathed in their gore, Upon glancing around the next morning I found There were many times that many more.

So I turned to the rearing of lettuce And cabbage and spinach and such, And they sprang up so fast that I wondered, aghast, If I might not be growing too much. But just as they flourished like hay trees I found they were covered with bugs, Which burrowed around in the deep furrowed ground— An army of cutworms and slugs.

The truck that I buy from the grocer Too often is withered and stale. The tomatoes are green and ill nourished and lean, And the lettuce as tough as chain mail. But at last I am free from my worries For no longer I look at my plants Quite demolished by slugs and by other base bugs Including the beetles and ants.

BECOMING A HABIT

Another "Solution" of the Farm Problem

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER
and WADDILL CATCHINGS

A plan will come before the next Congress to solve the Farm Problem by issuing money "representing" farm lands. Those who favor the plan maintain that land is the basis of all wealth. Why, then, they ask, should it not be the basis of money? Since farmers are in dire need of money, why should not the Government issue money based upon their land?

This plan has been tried, again and again. It was tried by France at the time of the revolution. The new money was called ASSIGNATS. At first, only 7000 millions were issued. A few months later, there was a popular demand for more money, so 16,000 millions more were issued, and presently 45,000 millions more.

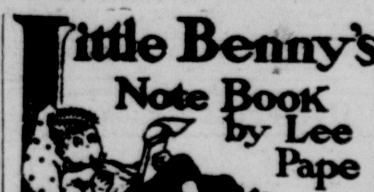

The new money fell rapidly in value. To stop this depreciation, a law was passed which set a penalty of twenty years in irons for anyone who gave or accepted the money for less than its face value. A law forbidding the sun to set would have been just as effective. The new money kept on sinking until a "land" note which the Government declared was worth five dollars was, in reality, not worth a nickel.

Massachusetts, in colonial days, tried the same plan with the same results. Japan went through a similar experiment.

The defect in the plan is plain enough. When we issue money representing land, we increase our money but not our land. Therefore a unit of money falls in value, and a unit of land rises in value. This gives the land a higher loan value, and so it serves as a basis for even larger issues of money. But the larger issues further increase the dollar value of the land; and so on, without limit.

It is true that this country will not regain prosperity until it has more money in circulation. It is true that more money in circulation will help the farmers. But it will help nobody to adopt this old land currency plan, again and again, has thrown other countries into currency chaos.

Pop was smoking to himself and ma was looking thoughtful, saying, Willyum, I been thinking over what you said about giving up your fishing trip and staying home for your vacation. Now I don't want to discourage you, Willyum, but I think that idea has so much against it as to leave practically nothing in its favor. In other words the ruling purpose of a vacation is change. A city man awt to go to the country, and vice versa, and you happen to be a city man, she said. Don't you think I'm rite? she said.

Exactly, and I've got a theory that a city man can find the country rite here in town, pop said. All he needs is a little time, and here's my chance to prove my theory. For instance, take herds. This very morning I saw 2 herds sitting on our back fence, and judging by their casual manner I'm sure they were man and wife, he said.

My goodness, sparrows, ma said, and pop said, Even so, they were expert flyers and they seemed to understand bird language perfectly, judging from the few remarks I overheard them make. And where there's herds there must be worms, so I can have all the pleasure of digging up worms in my own back yard without the bother of going fishing, not to mention the virtuous glow that will come over me when I let the little chaps go again. And how about horses? I cant wawk 5 minits without seeing one or 2 horses bambling in front of a laundry wagon or a bakery wagon, and at noon time I can watch them grazing peacefully in their nose bags. And if I wawk far enough I wouldn't be a bit surprised if I saw a cow. It mite be hanging up in a butcher shop but I'm sure I'll recognize it by the pictures, he said. And flowers, where in the country will you find flowers arranged as neatly as they are in the florist shops? he said.

Well at least that sort of thing will keep you out of the house, that's an advantage, ma said.

And she started to look as if she felt better.

The convention of the Orange County Christian Endeavor union is to be held in Orange this year, October 5, 6 and 7, at the Christian church, according to an announcement made today.

R. Y. Williams, recently elected president of the Orange County Bar association to succeed the late E. E. Keech, has also been chosen Keech's successor as attorney for the Santa Ana River Development company, which includes the Anaheim Union Water company and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company.

Tomorrow night will be the last night of grace for automobile owners who have not yet had the headlights and spotlights of their machines adjusted, it has been announced.

Announcement has been made that Anaheim union high school will open August 11.

Notices have been received by the board of supervisors of the intention of the Southern Counties Gas company to raise its rates for natural gas used for industrial purposes.

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE MASSES AND CAPITALISM

The masses do not naturally turn to radicalism, as many of the hysterical fraternity assume.

Save when prodded into recklessness, the masses are normally conservative.

The masses are not given to half-splitting.

They are content to let the philosophy of their industrial system be what it will, if its practical results but make for the increase, the enrichment and the stabilization of their lives.

It is, I am convinced, quite immaterial to them that a system like western capitalism rests upon a philosophy of private rights, with the assumption that mass welfare will come along automatically as a result of the free pursuit of private ends, as long as the mass welfare really follows.

The masses have no objection to mass welfare as a by-product as long as the by-product is assured and adequate.

I have long since outgrown the delusion that the masses are eager to share in the risks of ownership and the responsibilities of management.

Man is more enamoured of security than he is excited about liberty. A capitalism that successfully discharges the social function of industry by assuring the support and security of life for the millions while in the pursuit of its private ends is in little danger of overthrow from without or breakdown from within.

This is, we must admit, hardly the picture today.

There is no blinking the fact that millions of erstwhile uncritical servants of western capitalism today find their faith in its underlying assumption of mass welfare by induction, as the by-product of the exercise of private rights, seriously shaken by events.

This is a challenge to economic leadership, and happily it is a challenge that can be met, for it is inconceivable that we shall not muster a genius of management that shall restore the temporarily shaken faith of these millions.

This basic conservatism of the masses, this unconcern with the philosophical foundations of capitalism, as long as it delivers the goods, is what will give leadership its chance to effect a restoration, unless it is too lagard.

Tomorrow I shall speak of communism's challenge to capitalism.

OUR CHILDREN

DRESSING

"Time to get up, John George."

"Yes, mother."

"Hurry up and get dressed. Now remember. If you are not dressed in fifteen minutes I'm going to punish you. Fifteen minutes, remember."

"Yes'm."

"Now hurry. Are you beginning?"

Five minutes pass. Mother looks into the room. John George is sitting on the edge of the bed in his birthday suit. His underwear is in his hands but not in his consciousness. A faraway smile rests on the calm countenance of John George.

"What's this? You know what I told you. Now get busy young man or I'll be in here with the hairbrush. I mean it. Hurry up. Get into your clothes. Now hurry."

Another few moments pass and mother looks in again. John George has one stocking twisted about his leg and the other hangs limply from his hands. At sight of his mother's wrathful face he looks up at her and says, "Rover has teeth all the way round his mouth and some of them haven't grown up yet. Two of 'em have, but lots of them are teeny."

"Put on that stocking. Are you going to get dressed or am I to come with the hairbrush?"

"I'm dressing. I am hurrying. Can't you see I am most dressed?"

"Am—I am."

"There, I told you that if you were not dressed in fifteen minutes I'd use the brush on you, and I meant it. Now dress yourself."

self. Put that stocking on. Now fasten that garter. Stop sniffing or I'll give you something to sniff for. Every morning I have to have this scene with you. Now go to the bathroom and wash yourself. Mind you hurry. Breakfast is on the table."

What are you going to do with him? Talking is no good. Bribing is no good. The hairbrush is useless. He will need it again tomorrow.

When you have a John George you have to help him over his difficulty. You help with each garment. He slips it on and you smooth it; he puts in a button and you do three. Then the stockings. If you were wise you laid them ready the night before, all set to slip his toes into, turn over and pull. You set the toes right, he pulls, you smooth, he fastens one and you the other. Until he gathers sufficient push from the well set routine or habit, he has to be boosted. It will teach him, it will save you both a lot of wasted energy.

Begin when the child first seems to understand about dressing. Let him help himself as much as possible, while you stand by to help. Lay the child's clothes ready, in order of their use, so he has a good start. Help him until he can go alone. He will when he can.

WILSON REPLIES TO POPE

On August 27, 1917, President Wilson, through Secretary of State Robert Lansing, answered the peace proposal of Pope Benedict, indirectly addressing the German people to the effect that no peace was possible with their present irresponsible government.

"We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves...."

"We must await some new evidence of the purposes of the great peoples of the Central Powers. God grant it may be soon and in a way to restore the confidence of all peoples everywhere in the faith of nations and the possibility of a covenant of peace."

President Wilson's message was

Sez. Hugh:

IT'S GOOD POLICY NOT TO CROSS YOUR BRIDGE PARTNER!

Time To Smile

JUST TOO LATE

"Well, dad, I just looked in to say hello."

"Too late, my boy. Your mother looked in to say hello, and got all my change."

WHAT'S IN A NAME

"I'll have to give up going to slumber parties."

"Why?"

"The doctor says I will have to get more sleep."—Pathfinder.

AS USUAL

First Explorer—Ah, here is the skull of a woman.

Second—How can you tell it is the skull of a woman?

First—Can't you see the mouth is open?—Pathfinder.

CHO-CHO!

Wisecracker—My train of thought seems to be a slow freight today.

Bitter Half—Yes, and unfortunately it's also made up of empties.

—Pathfinder.

THAT FOR YOU!

Young Snob—You are the first interesting person I have met this morning.

She—Really—you are luckier than I.—Moustique, Charleroi.
